One day, John met a poor old lady. He gave her all his money. The old lady thanked him and gave him a violin. <sup>57</sup>

John walked on and met a man who was cutting the wood. The man said, "If you can help me, I'll give you some money." But after John cut down all the wood, the man did not give him any money. John was sad. All he could do was playing his violin. But when he was playing, the man danced to the music and could not stop. At last, the man begged, "Please stop!" He gave John all the money. <sup>58</sup>

John knew that it's a magic violin. So he wanted to give the landlord a lesson. He came to the landlord's home and asked him to return his money. <sup>60</sup> The landlord refused, so John played the violin. When the landlord heard the sound, he could not help dancing. Finally, he could not bear (忍受), and gave all the money to John.

Then John gave all the money to the poor people. <sup>56</sup>
